

English Magic is an exhibition created by Jeremy Deller from the British Council, and is the British representation at the Venice Biennale 2013.

This is the 55th International Art Exhibition and was held at the British Pavillion Giardini di Castello, Venice, Italy.

English Magic focused on themes about British society in its entirety. The music – a soundtrack of David Bowie, A Guy Called Gerald and Vaughan Williams was recorded by the Melodians Steel Orchestra at Abbey Road Studios, London.

The exhibition can be viewed at venues in the United Kingdom throughout 2014.

January to March: William Morris Gallery, Waltham Forest, London

April to September: Bristol Museum and Art Gallery, Bristol

September to December: Turner Contemporary, Margate
